

THE STAMPEDE

The Spirit of the Range.

The Freedom of the People.

Indian Reservations Are Unconstitutional

Either the Constitution means what it says, or it is not worth the paper it is written on.

Article I, Section 8, clause 17 of the United States Constitution states: "The United States exercises exclusive Legislation over the District of Columbia (not exceeding ten miles square), and to exercise like Authority over all Places purchased by the Consent of the Legislature of the State in which the Same shall be, for the Erection of Forts, Magazines, Arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings."

The United States has never obtained the consent of any State Legislature for any of the property that they presently possess in each State in the West. This includes Forts, Buildings and Indian Reservations.

This clause in the Constitution was derived from an agreement between the colony of Virginia and the other original colonies. It was called the Northwest Ordinance of 1787. Virginia was the largest colony and laid claim to most of the Northwest area west of the Appalachians. Virginia agreed to cede this area to the confederate government, providing that once an area had a population of at least 30,000 it would be admitted in the confederacy on "equal footing," as a State and as the other original colonies.

"The Ordinance of 1787 and the cession of Virginia provided that newly created States should be the same in all respects as those previously existing, and the Constitution sanctioned and acted upon that ordinance." The Constitution of the United States, John Randolph Tucker, Law Professor of Constitutional and International Law, p. 612, 1899.

"Each new State came into the Union as a co-pactor with the others and as a co-delegator of powers to the United States under the Constitution. The tenth amendment has as pertinent application to the last State, Utah, as to Virginia." Ibid. "This was settled by judicial decisions before and since the civil war." Ibid.

Before the war:

Permol v New Orleans, 3 How. 589; Benner v Porter, 9 id. 235; Atkinson v Cummins, id. 479; McNulty v Batty, 10 id. 72; Doe v Beebe, 13 id. 25; Cross v Harrison, 16 id. 164; Withers v Buckley, 20 id. 84.

After the war:

Texas v White, 7 Wall 700; Weber v Harbor Com'rs, 18 id. 57; United States v Fox, 94 US 315; Pound v Turck, 95 id. 459; Huse v Glover, 119 id. 543; Cardwell v American Bridge Co., 113 id. 205; St. Louis v Meyers, id 566; Sands v Manistee River Mfg. Co., 123 id. 288; Willamette Iron Bridge Co. v Hatch, 125 id. 1.

The Indian reservation land in both North and South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming was purchased from France in 1803 for fifteen (15) million silver dollars. It was divided into territories, until the land had the necessary population to be admitted as a State on "equal footing," as the original colonies. This is referred to as the "Equal Footing Doctrine."

Notice none of the States east of the Mississippi have federal Indian reservations, even though there are Eastern Indian tribes. Whereas in the West, the federal government stakes claim to over 50% of the land mass. A good share of this land mass is comprised of Indian reservations. It is obvious the States west of the Mississippi did not join the Union on equal footing.

The blame can on be put on the cowboy's shoulders. The cowboy has neglected to demand that their politicians belligerently object to not being on "equal footing," as the States east of the Mississippi.

The "Equal Footing Doctrine" is cowboy Bundy's argument, and he ended up in one of the Jew's concentration camps. The mass land and property holdings by the United States is security on the multi-trillion dollar national debt owed to the Jews.

The Jews have over 150 concentration camps scattered throughout the States. These concentration camps symbolize fear into the cowboy goyim, as the swastika projects fear into the Jews. It appears the Constitution is not worth the paper it is written on, and the veterans have failed to protect our most vital right.

Rudy "Butch" Stanko

MARKET REPORT

The cow and bull market has been steady for the past two weeks. The Jew packers are still plugged, and JBS is only bidding, without much enthusiasm, on the canner and cutter cows. Most all canner/cutter cows were bringing over 50¢. This is the first time JBS has been killing cows on Saturday. There were two feeder cow buyers at Philip that kept the utility cow market in the low sixties.

This week was St. Onge's last Saturday sale. The cow market was steady to strong on the canner/cutter market. Jew packer JBS, and myself were the only competition on the low grade cows. Most brought $50 to $53 or $1.20 in the meat. The one feeder buyer was the only one able to keep the other Jew Packer, American Foods, honest. The utility cows, for the most part, brought in the low 60's, but several packages brought right at $56. This is all that I had on utilities. The bulls brought between $80.50 to $77.00. Most all the broken mouth cows brought $900. One semi-load of 4 year old cows brought $1600. Depending on the quality, bred heifers brought between $1100 to $1500.
